

Compromise on Tax Cutting a Possibility

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP)—The possibility of a White House compromise on tax-cutting proposals spurred administration hopes today for congressional approval of some other major segments of President Kennedy's legislative program.

There was general belief among available Congress members that when Kennedy sits down April 25 with a group of business men led by Henry Ford II, he will be willing to make some concessions aimed at enlisting their support for a revised tax reduction plan.

Kennedy has given top priority to tax reduction. But his proposals for linking graduated cuts over three years with revisions of the revenue laws has encountered stiff opposition which has spread to other segments of his program.

Republicans have cranked up a budget-reduction drive pointed at the $4.5-billion increase in spending over current levels Kennedy has estimated for the year beginning July 1.

The Republican drive is aimed primarily at new administration programs, such as the mass transit and youth employment legislation already passed by the Senate.

The group headed by Ford has proposed in a preliminary statement of principles a substantial reduction in individual income tax rates, plus a cutback in the maximum corporate levy from 52 to 47 per cent. It has indicated it believes revenue law changes can wait until later.

Most associates think the President would not object to having his proposed $10-billion net tax reduction telescoped into a single year.

The Ford group is reported proposing sharp reductions in expenditures, with the goal of eliminating budget deficits.

If these programs are reduced in size—as the youth employment bill was cut from $500 million to $375 million in the Senate—their chances of final approval by Congress would be enhanced.

Dallas Mayor to Visit Arkansas

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP)—The mayor of Dallas, Tex., is due Thursday for a celebration of the 100th anniversary of the Battle of Fayetteville because he is the grandson of a Confederate general who led troops in that Civil War encounter.

Earle Cabell is the descendant of Gen. W. L. Cabell, who attacked Union forces commanded by Maj. Gen. Samuel R. Curtis on April 18, 1863. Another grandson, Gen. C. P. Cabell of Washington, also has been invited.

The ceremony, sponsored by the Washington County Historical Society, will be held on the lawn of the P. R. Green home, which was Confederate headquarters for the battle. A historical marker will be dedicated.

Violent Death Toll Goes to 12

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A Pine Bluff man was killed in a car-train collision Easter Sunday and two persons died in traffic Saturday night to send the Arkansas violent death toll for the week ending at midnight Sunday to 14.

H. M. Williams, 64, was driving a car which was hit by a Cotton Belt Railroad train at a crossing inside the Pine Bluff city limits.

Patrolman Bill Jones of the Pine Bluff Police Department said Williams was traveling east on Sixth Street when he ran onto the crossing. The train was northbound, Jones said.

Fire claimed one life during the week, a second was killed when hit by a train, and traffic accidents claimed the other lives.

On a daily basis, Monday and Wednesday were free of violent deaths last week. Saturday was the worst day, with traffic accidents killing four and fire one.

Devane Vogel, 21, of St. Joe died when his truck overturned on a rural road four miles north of Pindall.

Kenneth Sutherland, 19, of Ozark was killed and Brenda Flannery, 15, of near Ozark injured when the car in which they were passengers overturned on Highway 23, three miles north of Ozark. The driver, Jimmy Harris, 19, of near Ozark was not hurt.

Collector Barely Beats the Deadline

WASHINGTON (AP)—Mortimer M. Caplin, the nation's chief tax collector, has safely beat the income tax deadline—but not by much.

At the dinner hour Saturday, Caplin deposited form 1040 in a letterbox near his Northwest Washington home. The deadline is midnight tonight.

Caplin doesn't want to be known as a Hairbreadth Harry although, like millions of other Americans, he concedes he did dilly-dally a bit.

The Internal Revenue Service commissioner told a reporter Sunday night he got the adding and subtracting done a week ago.

When the Internal Revenue Service sent out its tax forms and instruction booklets this year they were accompanied by a letter from Caplin which advised "file early." It was suggested to the 46-year-old tax chief that perhaps he wasn't following his own advice.

Caplin laughed, then said the advice is primarily for the 40 million or so taxpayers who get refunds. The government wants to send them out early, he said. Caplin isn't getting one.

Like other Washington residents, Caplin recently received his new auto tags. Because "somebody had a cute idea," the number assigned to him is a constant reminder of his job: 1040.

James Luck Hurt in Fall From Horse

James Luck, 15, was injured about noon today when thrown from a horse at his home on Washington road. His head hit a fence post and his condition is critical.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Luck, a Herndon-Cornelius ambulance brought him to a local hospital for treatment and later today took him to a hospital in Little Rock.

DAR Installs Mrs. Peck as New Regent

Mrs. George W. Peck was installed as regent at the Spring meeting of the John Cain Chapter of the DAR at Hotel Barlow.

Other officers installed by Mrs. J. J. Battle, chaplain, were: Mrs. Otis Blackwood, vice-regent; Mrs. Roy Stephenson, secretary; Mrs. Wilbur Jones, registrar; Mrs. Charles Locke, historian and Mrs. Miss Mamie Twitchell, librarian.

The Honorable Talbot Feild Jr. was guest speaker. He discussed the voter registration bill which was introduced and debated but failed to pass the legislature. He pointed out that 30 of the required 38 states have already ratified the proposed amendment to the constitution prohibiting the poll tax as a requisite for voting and said that a special session of the Arkansas Legislature to deal with the problem of voter registration might be necessary if the amendment is ratified by a sufficient number of states before the legislature convenes again in regular session.

Mr. Feild said that, since an enlightened public opinion is one of the objectives of the DAR, each member should study the subject of voter registration and the type of law needed in Arkansas.

G&F Treatment Is Protested

LONOKE, Ark. (AP)—Protests over the treatment of two Lonoke fish farmers by the state Game and Fish Commission have been filed by J. M. Malone Jr. of Lonoke, president of the Arkansas Fish Farmers Association.

He sent telegrams to the commission, alleging that employees of I. F. Anderson and Mayor J. B. Ketchum of Lonoke were arrested and fined for violations of rules to assist the commission in identifying truck loads of fish.

Malone said regulations had been amended or repealed without notice to fish farmers. He alleged other acts of harassment by the commission.

A committee of the association has been selected to discuss the situation with the commission, although no time and place has been set, Malone said.

Faubus Returns Police Autos

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Gov. Orval E. Faubus says the State Police Department now has two automobiles which are in its fleet but which were being used by Faubus' assistants.

The governor did not say who was using the cars.

Faubus said he has ordered several other cars return to the State Police. It is part of a move to tighten up on State Police expenses because the department is suffering from lack of funds, he said.

Gasoline for the cars was not furnished by the State Police, although maintenance was, the governor added.

Minority Group in Traskwood Church Upheld

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Arkansas Supreme Court ruled today that control of the Traskwood Missionary Baptist Church should be returned to a minority group which adheres to basic church doctrines.

The high court directed Saline Chancery Court to issue a decree in line with this ruling which was issued in a rehearing of the case. Today's 6-1 ruling sustained the position of the minority group which brought suit against a majority group and Elder A. Z. Dovers, the pastor.

The court restrained Dovers from continuing as pastor of the church early last month. The minority group contended he was teaching doctrines inimical to the Landmark Missionary Baptist faith.

The majority group also asked for a rehearing, contending the dispute was not in the realm of judicial review. The majority group's position was rejected today.

Today's opinion by Associate Justice George Rose Smith emphasized that separation of church and state was not involved in the case—that it was merely a matter of devolving the church property to the cause for which it was intended, furthering the Landmark Missionary Baptist faith.

Chief Justice Carlton Harris wrote a concurring opinion. Associate Justice Ed F. McFaddin, who dissented from the earlier opinion, also disagreed today.

Moderate Takes Over as Mayor of Birmingham

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—Albert Boutwell — a segregationist, but considered a moderate on the issue—takes the oath of office as mayor of Birmingham today amid prospects of more demonstrations by Negroes fighting the city's racial barriers.

Sunday 32 demonstrators were arrested, bringing to 260 the number jailed since Negroes launched an anti-segregation drive early this month.

The arrests came after police halted nearly 1,000 Negroes marching toward city jail, where several of their leaders, including the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr., are being held.

A little earlier, a few Negroes succeeded in attending Easter services at two white churches. Negroes were turned away from several other white churches.

The mild-mannered Boutwell and the nine councilmen elected with him had no assurance they would be able to step immediately into the duties of office.

They were chosen to replace a three-man city commission, but the commissioners — including arch segregationist Eugene Connor — contend their terms have not expired and say they won't surrender office without a court fight.

Police set up a roadblock as Sunday's demonstration began at a Negro church on the edge of the business district. The Negroes turned into an alley, but policemen stopped them in a field.

Police wagons and patrol cars were packed with demonstrators. Patrolmen brandished billy clubs and the surging crowd fell back. There was some scuffling, but no major violence.

Several demonstrators threw rocks at police. A rock shattered the windshield of a police motorcycle.

Leashed dogs were brought out of patrol cars, but were not used in quelling the boisterous crowd.

Police pushed two newsmen from the street to the sidewalk. A state court injunction was issued Wednesday night banning all forms of demonstrations, but Negro leaders said the protests would continue.

Man Gets 21 Years for Carnal Abuse

Charles Richardson, Hope, entered a plea of guilty to carnal abuse in Hempstead Circuit Court Monday and was sentenced to 21 years in the Arkansas Penitentiary.

Richardson had been charged in connection with the alleged rape last November of a 13-year-old girl at his home. This morning the rape charge was reduced to carnal abuse and he entered the guilty plea.

In other action Judge Lyle Brown formally sentenced Bob Hester, McNab, to six years in prison. He was convicted of voluntary manslaughter last week by a jury and the sentence was recommended. He was charged in the slaying of Phillip Knighton at McNab last year.

R. C. Jones, 22, Negro, charged with the murder of Charles Jefferson at McNab last fall, was sentenced to three years in the penitentiary, two years suspended. Jones shot Jefferson to death with a pistol during a fight between the two. He pleaded guilty.

In a jury trial Theodore Hodnett, was found guilty of driving while intoxicated and fined $250 and driver's license suspended for six months.

Lower Courts Taken Out of Rail Cut Case

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court decided 6-3 today that lower federal tribunals lack authority to block cuts in railroad freight rates pending a final ruling by the Interstate Commerce Commission on the reductions.

The decision is of prime interest in the Southeast where railroads are proposing to cut rates on grain despite vigorous opposition from large lines.

Justice Brennan, delivering the court's majority opinion, said Congress had given to ICC the sole and exclusive power to suspend rate cuts. This congressional action, he said, withdrew from the judiciary any pre-existing power to grant injunctive relief against cuts.

Justice Clark, in a dissenting opinion, said the court majority in today's case "sounds the death knell to barge transportation on the Tennessee River."

Chief Justice Warren and Justices Black joined in Clark's dissent.

Brennan's majority opinion said that the congressional mandate to achieve a balance between competing forms of transportation is directed not to the courts but to the commission.

Brennan said that Congress did not intend to permit the revival of the judicial remedy "the exercise of which might well defeat rather than promote the objectives of the national transportation policy."

Clark's dissenting opinion, however, protested that "it is, indeed, a sad day for our judicial processes when our courts are rendered powerless to prevent this miscarriage of the clear policy of our government, the frustration of the admitted duties of the Interstate Commerce Commission and the destruction of an entire system of transportation."

The question of authority of the federal courts was raised by a barge line called the Arrow Transportation Co., the City of Gunterville, Ala., and two firms in opposing a cut of 60 per cent or more in rates on grain hauled by rail.

The reduction was proposed by the Southern Railway, Louisville & Nashville Railroad, St. Louis-San Francisco Railway and Seaboard Air Line Railroad.

The new rates, proposed by the railroads July 7, 1961, are under ICC study. Under usual ICC procedure, the reductions were suspended for seven months after a preliminary commission statement that there was reason to believe the cuts would constitute an unfair and destructive competitive practice.

After passage of the seven months, the reductions would have

Navy Resumes Probe of Thresher

PORTSMOUTH, N.H. (AP) — Navy court of inquiry today resumes its efforts to discover what swift disaster overtook the submarine Thresher in the depths of the Atlantic Ocean.

The ill-fated nuclear submarine with 129 men aboard plunged to a watery grave—some 8,000 feet deep—during a test dive last Wednesday about 220 miles east of Boston.

The Navy plans a brief pause in its search for the cause of the disaster to place a black and white floral wreath on the approximate spot below which the vessel lies.

The only sign of the Thresher since her last communication with an escort vessel Wednesday morning has been bits of debris found floating in the area.

It is from the debris, the messages and the knowledge and experience of veteran submarine builders and sailors that the five-man board is trying to form a picture of what caused the Thresher to vanish suddenly—probably forever.

Haunting the inquiry at Portsmouth Naval Shipyard where the Thresher was built is the fact that the cause of the tragedy may never be known. It may lie buried with the submarine at ocean depths from which, Navy officials say, salvage is impossible.

Lt. (jg) James D. Watson, navigator on the USS Skylark, surface escort vessel of the Thresher, told the court Saturday of the final exchange of messages and then "the sound of a ship breaking up—like a compartment collapsing."

Watson said the sounds came a few seconds after 9:17 a.m. They were the last sounds to be heard from the Thresher.

The submarine's last audible message to the Skylark was: "Have positive up angle, attempting to blow up."

Watson explained that this meant the submarine was trying to blow water out of its ballast tanks and to surface.

Moments later, Watson said, a garbled message came from the Thresher. Only the last two words "test depth" were audible. After that the only sound was "a muted dull thud."

Mrs. John Wesley Harvey of New London, Conn., widow of the Thresher's skipper, and Mrs. Patrick M. Garner of Mystic, Conn., widow of the vessel's executive officer, planned to attend a memorial service at the U.S. submarine base at New London today and then fly to Portsmouth to take part in the wreath-laying ceremonies over the Atlantic.

The wreath, shaped like a submarine, will be dropped on the approximate location of the Thresher's remains from a Navy plane.

gone into effect automatically except for litigation begun by the barge line and other objectors.

The grain involved is hauled in multiple-car shipments of five, 10 or 20 cars from Ohio and Mississippi River ports.

A DEAD ENDING

By Judson Phillips

THE STORY: Matt Higby fails to keep a date with Cornelia Ryan, his lawyer, and when Ryan calls Frances Terrill, he discovers that Higby has disappeared. Higby is suspected of murdering Dennis Hooper.

XIII

"You knew who Dennis Hooper was when he barged in here last night. He called you by your first name. Did you pass that on to Matt when we first got here?"

"No! I told you—I'd never seen the man before. I don't know Dennis Hooper. He was a complete stranger." The corner of her mouth twitched. "Did I tell you about his calling me 'Frances'?"

"Dawn came to see me."

"You're kidding!" she said.

"Ask her. Let's get back to Dennis Hooper. You're going to keep playing it this way—that you never saw him before in your life?"

"It's true," she said, looking steadily at me.

I sat down in the wing chair and lit a cigarette. "All right, let's try it from another angle," I said. "You know that General Hooper was trying to keep Matt from getting an owner's license to race horses."

"Yes, I know."

"Did he even mention Dennis Hooper to you?"

"No."

Truth or not she wasn't going to budge.

The doorbell rang. We both jumped a foot. Matt at last, I thought. I heard her whisper his name as she hurried to the door—and opened it to a complete stranger.

He was a tall, erect man, sixtyish I thought. He wore an expensively tailored tropical worsted suit and a summer-weight hat. Gray eyes, cold as two newly minted dimes, shot past Frances to me and then back again to her. He took off his hat, revealing a shiny bald head with a closely clipped fringe of gray hair. His thin, hard mouth was shadowed by a gray, toothbrush mustache.

"Mrs. Terrill? Mrs. Frances Terrill?" he asked.

Frances' reply was so low it was just a murmur.

"My name is Hooper," the man said. "Gen. Lee Hooper. I wonder if I might speak to you for a moment or two?"

Frances stood aside and I saw she was hanging onto the door-jamb for dear life. The General walked briskly into the room and looked around, scowling. He saw the damaged upholstery and his mouth tightened. Then he focused on me.

"I've seen you somewhere before, sir, haven't I?" he said.

"My name is Ryan," I said.

"Just for the record, General, I'm Matthew Higby's lawyer."

"Ah, yes," he said, undisturbed. "But I associate you with something else. You're Jacob Kramer's partner. The Turnbull case."

Turnbull had been a retired army colonel whom Jake had defended from a charge of having misappropriated some charity organization's funds. I'd conducted a part of the cross-examination. The jury saw it our way.

"Brilliant defense," the General said. "Turnbull was on my staff during the invasion of Sicily. Absurd to think him guilty of any sort of fraud." The gray eyes turned to Frances who had come slowly, like a sleepwalker, back into the room. "I came here this morning, Mrs. Terrill, in a time of tragedy for me, to throw myself on your mercy."

Frances stared at him as though she hadn't heard him.

"My nephew," the General said, standing ramrod straight. "You know that he was murdered in the late hours last night. But before that, Mrs. Terrill, was his outrageous foray into this apartment, the destruction of your property, and a personal assault on you. I have come here to make what amends I can."

"Are you offering to pay me for my black eyes, General?" Frances asked.

"There's the matter of a new dress," I said, enjoying myself. The gray eyes swiveled toward me—cold, angry, eyes.

"Perhaps I've not made my point as humbly as I wished," the General said. "Dennis was my only blood relative. My brother's son. His violent death, I'm sure you must realize, has left me and Mrs. Hooper sorely tried. Please, Mrs. Terrill, tell me what we may do for you—"

"One of the things you might do," I said, "is to stop persecuting Matt Higby."

Again the cold gray eyes shimmered my way. "And for my 'persecution' of Higby, I have reason to believe that Higby might not be a desirable member of the Thoroughbred racing community. A thorough investigation is not 'persecution.' As for my suggesting to the police that they check out on Higby last night, surely you cannot call that 'persecution.' Dennis' ill-advised action here was certainly enough to arouse Higby's most primitive emotions. It was the only possible lead I could give the police at the moment. I understand, however, that the police have set Higby free. There's been no harm done to him."

Sanders Is Winner at Greensboro

By KEN ALYTA
GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP)—A dozen years ago a slim-waisted, skinny 18-year-old from Cedar-town, Ga., arrived unheralded at Durham, N.C., for the Junior Chamber of Commerce National Junior Golf Tournament.

His name was Doug Sanders and his short backswing attracted the attention of purists who marveled at the results he got with what has since become known as the "telephone booth swing. He went on to win the tournament, his first triumph of consequence.

Today, Doug Sanders, now 29, and still slender at 160 pounds, is $5,500 richer for having returned to North Carolina to win the $37,500 Greater Greensboro Open tournament.

He closed with a two-under-par 69 round Sunday a 270 total, 14 under par, to lead the field by four shots.

Sanders put together rounds of 68-65-68-69—over the 7,000-yard, par 71 Sedgefield Country Club course to miss by one shot tying the tournament record set by Sam Snead, seven-time winner here since 1938.

Second was 41-year-old Jimmy Clark of Huntington Beach, Calif., who closed with his third 68 for a 274 total to win $3,500.

Australian Kel Nagle, who made so in a brief note and suggest that he see a psychiatrist if his moods continue.

CAN A MAN BE TOO GOOD TO HIS WIFE?
By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen: After 16 years of being married to the same woman I am once again a single man. We separated three years, ago much against my wishes and have since divorced.

Being folksy, home-loving and liking companionship, I fell for another woman and we got along fine for two years. I would give her most of my money and treat her like a queen but, having been through the marriage mill once, was leery of a second try.

My worst fears were confirmed when she started nagging over nothing. If I didn't fuss back she nagged twice as hard.

Battling with a woman goes against my nature. Instead of yakkety-yakking, I walk out. That's what I've done on this girl and yet—I miss her. Can a man be too good to a woman? Friends say that's my trouble. If so, marriage is not for me. I am 42 and will stay single the rest of my life rather than be saddled again with a scold. Are all women like that? —Had Enough.

Dear Had: Your difficulty lies in not finding the courage to assert yourself. Instead of grabbing your hat and loping off each time your former wife or erstwhile lady love started needling, you should have stayed to listen, considered the cause of the complaint, issued an ultimatum and then walked out. By bolting, you lost both face and dignity.

Women, being intuitive, are quick to sense cowardice and, like a boxer jabbing away at an opponent's cut lip or slashed eye, make the most of the vulnerability.

We have our faults and our virtues. Yet, by and large, the majority of women are pretty intelligent and reasonable, considering the fact that the Victorian way of life still shadows us. As an easy mark you probably attract the difficult ones, but that doesn't mean we are all naggers. However, I admit some women so behave like spoiled brats simply because their parents were as weak-willed and overindulgent as you have been.

Practice saying, "This is it, or else," to your next candidate for wife. In other words, take charge! Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for my leaflet, "The Ideal Husband."

Dear Helen: Being 13 and in the eighth grade—same as that teen who wrote you about the wild parties—I fully agree with "Shocked." Maybe if we teens would set an example by holding out for food, clean fun, we'd accomplish something. Anyway, don't you think 13 is a little too young for a boy-girl party? Plenty of time for that as we grow up. Why not do it step-by-step? Or should we grow up all of a sudden? —Another Teen

Dear Another: You're right, 13 is a bit too young for boy-girl parties. There is a general tendency to be precious about courtship and marriage. The Salt Lake City Tribune declared in a recent editorial, that "The problem calls for concerted preventive action . . . It involves individual parents, the youths themselves, neighborhoods and the community-at-large . . . In some (Utah) districts a girl is automatically dismissed (from school) when she marries or becomes pregnant . . . Certainly greater stress should be placed on discouraging early dating.

This editorial appeared shortly after Father James Carey, the Jersey City priest, announced that he would expel any girl or boy in his school who was going steady. Maybe it's a trend. I hope so!

Confidential: N. H. (Indiana)—If a sex maniac is roaming your town tell the police, your husband's advice to the contrary.

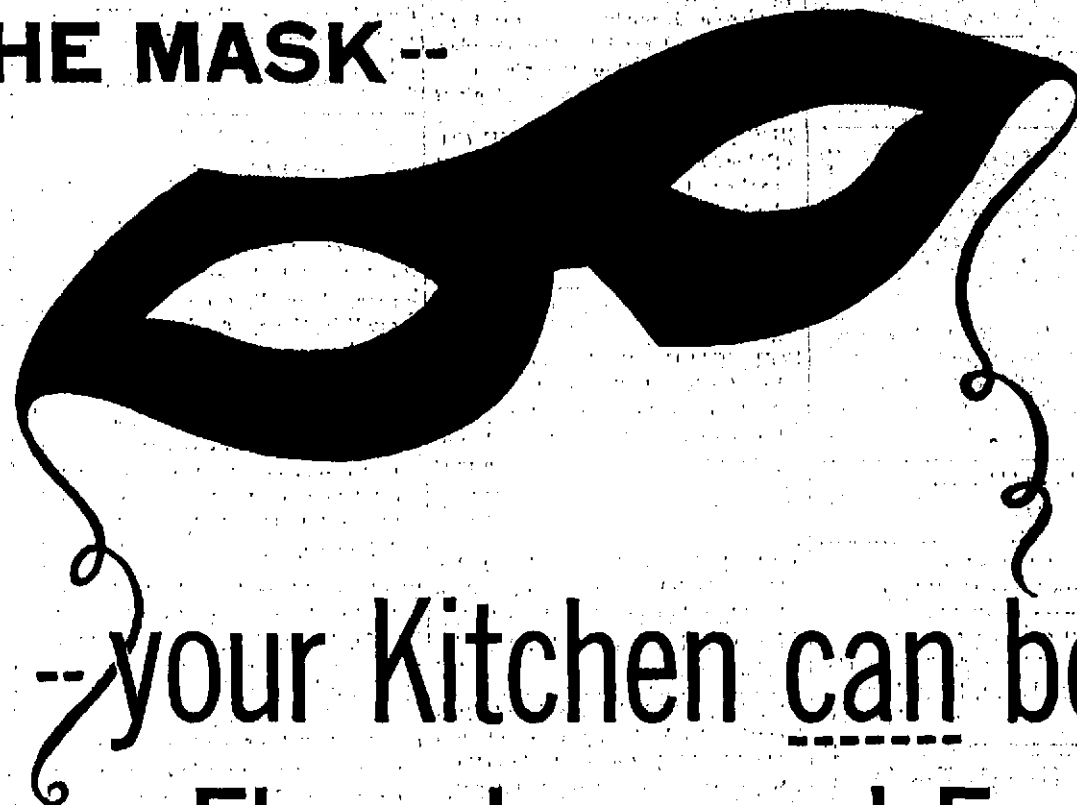

Trapped (Frederick, Md.)—Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for my leaflet, "Marital Harmony." Also consult your doctor.

Puzzles (New Haven, Conn.)—Give your brother's mother-in-law enough rope and she'll hang herself. There's nothing sillier than an old woman making a play for a young man. Ignore her antics and keep your sense of humor. This is a problem for your husband, not you, to settle.

Sad, Heart (Pawucket, N.J.)—Put that moody, confused kid out of life. Maybe the break will bring the boy to his senses. Ill-temper can be a curse. Tell him

Cubs Happy About Trade With Cards

By JIM BECKER

Associated Press Sports Writer

"We made the trade of the year."

So said Bob Kennedy, the head of the horde of Chicago Cub coaches, talking about the deal that brought Larry Jackson and Lindy McDaniel to the Cubs from the St. Louis Cardinals during the winter.

"We got our ace starter, and our best relief pitcher, in one deal," the Cubs' head coach said.

Kennedy's words looked very wise today. Jackson fanned the mighty San Francisco Giants for the first time this year, 3-1 Sunday, with ninth-inning help from McDaniel.

The defeat dropped the Giants into a first-place tie with the Pittsburgh Pirates and the Philadelphia Phils. all with 4-1 records.

Alvin McBean scattered 10 hits and pitched out of two bases-loaded messes, to best the Cincinnati Reds and Joey Jay, 1-0 for the Pirates.

Jack Baldschun, the relief workhorse of the Phils—332 games in the last two years—picked up the decisions in both ends of a double-header victory over the Cards, 4-3 in 10 innings, and 5-4.

The Houston Colts whipped Sandy Koufax and the Los Angeles Dodgers 5-1, and the hapless New York Mets went down 1-0 in 10 innings before the Milwaukee Braves, in the other National League games.

In the American League, the New York Yankees moved into undisputed first place with a 5-1 victory over the Baltimore Orioles, Cleveland trimmed Detroit 6-0, Washington whipped Boston 7-6 and Kansas City edged Minnesota 5-4.

The Chicago White Sox game at Los Angeles was rained out, the first such postponement in major league history in the California city.

Scene That Makes Strong Men Weak--First Run of Lawnmower

THAT NOISE YOU HEAR FROM THE YARD NEXT DOOR — like a bulldozer going through a cane-brake — means your neighbor is making the first lawnmower run of 1963. THE PICTURE SHOWS THE LINE OF BATTLE — 30-inch high daisy stems, dock-weed, and what-have-you, on the right; and the yard, with a brand-new crew-cut, on the left. IT'S JUST NATURE'S WAY OF TELLING YOU WHAT happened to last summer's stand of Bermuda between Fall and Spring. Birds brought in something more than song — they imported all kinds of weed seeds; and it will be a ragged-looking yard until the lawnmower has run several times. THE SCENE WAS THE EDITOR'S ANNUAL BATTLE in his own back yard — but this time he stood long enough to make a picture where the going was toughest.

Houston Classic

HOUSTON (AP) — Forty-two amateurs, seeking five spots in the $50,000 Houston Golf Classic, tee off today in an 18-hole qualifier.

Jackson's sparkling performance against the Giants was in line with the fine pitching the Cubs have gotten all season. In five games, all against the Dodgers and Giants, Cub pitchers have a 1.20 earned run average.

McBean pitched the Pirates to their fourth straight, although he left the bases loaded twice and stranded two men in three other innings.

Joey Jay pitched a five hitter for the Reds for eight innings, but three of the hits, singles by Smoky Burgess, Donn Clendenon and Bill Virdon, came in the fourth inning for the only run.

It was Cincinnati's fourth straight defeat after an opening victory.

The St. Louis pitching staff, which had 53 consecutive scoreless innings including the last 21 innings of last season, came down to earth with a thud against the Phils. Wes Covington doubled home a run in the sixth inning of the opener to snap the string.

Charley James tied the score at 3-3 with a Cardinal homer in the ninth, and then Earl Averill's short sacrifice fly in the 10th pushed over the winner.

In the second game, Ray Sadecki had a 4-0 lead for the Cards until Tony Taylor hit a two-run homer in the seventh and Don Demeter hit another in the two-run eighth. Taylor reached first on Dick Groat's error in the ninth, was sacrificed to second and scored the winner on Demeter's single off relief pitcher Ron Taylor.

Koufax, who has never beaten the Colts in five starts, lost his first against one victory, at Houston. The left-hander was the victim of a four-hit barrage and some sloppy support in the sixth inning.

The poor Mets, still winless, suffered their third shutout in five games. They have scored only three runs, an average of 3.5th of a run per game, and have a team batting average of .124, on 19 hits, a shade under four per game.

Bob Hendley held the Mets to four hits. Roger Craig was the victim. He matched zeros with Hendley through nine innings, but gave up a run in the 10th on a walk, a sacrifice and Ty Cline's single.

Grand-Prix Sunday at Stuttgart

STUTTGART, Ark. (AP)—More than 100 drivers from 14 states are expected at Stuttgart next Saturday and Sunday for the fourth running of the Grand Prix-Grand Prix.

Drivers will race in 18 division before an expected crowd of more than 10,000 people. They will compete for trophies and Sports Car Club of America championship points.

The race puts more emphasis on skill than speed, but some of the cars are fast. One of the fastest expected to appear will be a Buick Stiletto driven by R. P. Vandawalker of North Little Rock. The Stiletto is one of only four ever made and the last still in competition.

Vandawalker says the car has done better than 170 miles an hour and he thinks it can top 180.

He is afraid, however, that the car is too heavy to turn corners well and this may lead to its downfall at Stuttgart.

Among top drivers who will compete in the race is Hap Sharp, a Midland Texas oil dealer who has been the overall winner in three of the four Grand Prixes held at Stuttgart.

The race is held at the old Stuttgart Air base on a course which follows old runways. It has nine turns, including two 135 degree switchbacks.

Sports cars of every type will be on display including the Austin-Healey Sprite and ranging to the huge Cooper-Manacors and modified specials.

Cars participating in the event include such names as Alfa Romeo, Triumph, Corvette, Porsche, Jaguar, Ferrari, Maserati, Daimler Fiat Sunbeam and Volkswagen.

Leading drivers expected to appear besides Sharp include Art Bunker and Harry Woodward of Kansas City Dan Horn, Harry Braswell and Phil Harold of Memphis, Mack Yates of St. Louis, Harry Washburn of Shreveport, Jack Hinkle of Wichita, Kan., Dave Morgan of Tulsa and Delmo Johnson of Dallas.

Sharp, Johnson and Morgan were competitors in a recent endurance race at Sebring, Fla., where Morgan's Corvette was a first place winner.

Representing Arkansas at the race will be Vandawalker, Howard Eichenbaum, Clint Cavin, Jr., Dr. Early Pearson, Dick Harrison, Bill Gilmore and Charles Dove, all of Little Rock.

From other parts of Arkansas will be Jim Mosely of Pine Bluff, Frank Brown and Jay Enlow of Hot Springs, Clement Malinka of El Dorado Monte Carlson, Delbert Davis and Leavelle Smith of Stuttgart.

The races will begin Saturday afternoon at 1:30 p.m. with four runs scheduled. On Sunday seven are scheduled with the first at noon.

Drivers will be allowed to make practice runs on the mornings of both days.

The races will be run regardless of the weather.

The Grand Prix-Grand Prix is the first of a series of events which will determine the Sports Car Club's midwest divisional championship.

Other races are scheduled at Alliance, Neb.; Kansas City, Greenwood, Iowa; Castle Rock, Colo.; Garden City, Kan.; and Oklahoma City.

The winners will be determined by point accumulation.

The Grand Prix is the only major sports car race in Arkansas.

It is dedicated to a sport that started in 1910 during the infancy of the automobile. The sport caught on in the United States after the close of World War II and has had a steady growth since.

Transfer Has Really Helped Some Players

By JOE REICHLER

Associated Press Sports Writer

Attention slump-ridden batters: Shell-shocked pitchers:

Here's what you do. Get a transfer to another major league club. It has done wonders for others.

For example, Jerry Walker, Ron Kline, Larry Osborne, Stan Williams and Orlando Pena of the American League.

Walker hurled shutout ball through 4-2-3 innings after coming to the relief of star Jim Grant Sunday and was credited with Cleveland's 6-0 victory over Detroit. Walker was 8-9 at Kansas City last year.

Kline's sparkling four-inning relief stint helped the Washington Senators defeat the Boston Red Sox 7-6. Osborne drove in two runs with a double and sacrifice and scored another Senator run. Kline was 3-6 and Osborne batted .230 at Detroit last year.

Williams turned back the Baltimore Orioles 5-1 with a five-hitter as he pitched the New York Yankees into first place. He had a mediocre 12-10 record with Los Angeles last year and wore the goat's horns after walking in the winning run in the Giants' final playoff victory over the Dodgers.

Pena pitched five dazzling relief innings in Kansas City's 5-4 triumph over Minnesota. The Cuban right-hander, a bust with Cincinnati, was rescued by the Athletics from the minors last summer.

A minor miracle occurred in Los Angeles, where the only other

JONESBORO, Ark. (AP) — Arkansas State College defeated St. Louis University 6-1 but lost to Murray State of Kentucky 14-7 in Jonesboro Saturday.

St. Louis University beat Central Missouri State College in the third game 9-6 which closed out an 8-game series between the four teams.

Russ Isaak led SLU against Central Missouri with three hits, all singles. J. C. Forst got two singles for three times at bat for the Missouri team.

Murray State's Pat Boyer got a single and a triple for five times at bat to pace his team. George Glenn got three singles for five tries for A-State.

Against St. Louis, Robbie Finch batted out a single and a double to lead Arkansas State while Dock Porzel went 3 for 4, all singles for the losers.

All game was scheduled. Rain washed out the Chicago White Sox and the Angels.

Newly traded players also play key roles in nearly all National League decisions.

Larry Jackson, traded by St. Louis to Chicago, was credited with the Cubs' 3-1 victory over San Francisco. Don Nottebart, swapped by Milwaukee to Houston, pitched the Colts to a 5-4 victory over the Dodgers. Howie Goss, acquired from Pittsburgh, drove in two Colt runs with a pair of singles. Ty Cline, late of Cleveland, drove in the only run with a 10th inning single in Milwaukee's 1-0 triumph over the New York Mets. Earl Averill, ex-Angel, drove in the winning run with a sacrifice fly in the 10th inning in Philadelphia's 4-3 first game triumph over St. Louis. The Phils also won the second game, 5-4.

Pittsburgh defeated Cincinnati 1-0 as Alvin McBean outpitched Joey Jay.
